AEM Welcomes New Sales Manager

Kelowna, BC, November 26, 2020 – Anodyne Electronics Manufacturing (AEM) Corp., a global provider of specialty aviation solutions is pleased to announce the appointment of Andrea Moinet-Nichols as Sales Manager at its Canadian headquarters in Kelowna, BC.

Hailing from France, Andrea is trained as an aircraft maintenance engineer and a commercial helicopter pilot. She has worked in various technical roles with several aviation companies including Kelowna-based Alpine Aerotech. In 2015, she pursued a sales career in Alberta with the goal of eventually returning to the Okanagan aerospace industry. Having developed valuable sales and management skills, Andrea will lead the AEM sales team through the launch of several new developments in airborne communication products.

“I can say without hesitation that we have found the right person for the role” said Tony Weller, Director of Sales and Marketing at AEM. “Andrea will not only fit in with our team, but her global aviation experience will allow us to better serve our increasing customer base and prepare AEM for continued growth for many years to come.”

Andrea agrees that this role is a perfect match for her skills and interests: “I am very proud to be part of the AEM team, an innovative and dynamic company that allows me to combine my passion for sales, people and aviation.”
