Metro Aviation celebrates longevity among employees

16 JUN 2021 – Shreveport, La. –

Take a walk around Metro Aviation headquarters in Shreveport, Louisiana, and you'll notice a common theme – loyalty and longevity. Many Metro employees have been with the company for at least a decade or more, with several boasting 15, 20, or 25 years with the Metro Family.

“We say Metro family a lot, and we truly mean it,” said Metro COO Kenny Morrow. “We have worked hard to provide a salary and benefits package that I believe demonstrates our commitment to our employees and their families. We value every single one of our 1,000 family members, from painters to pilots.”

Metro most recently celebrated the retirement of Mike Evans, a sheet metal technician with Metro for twenty years. Metro Managing Director Milton Geltz presented him with a commemorative wrench fabricated in Metro's machine shop.

The Metro Aviation family is constantly growing. To view current openings, visit metroaviation.com/careers.
