Dallas Avionics Signs North American Distributor Agreement with AEM for Digital Audio Systems

(DALLAS, TEXAS 9/17/21) – Dallas Avionics announced today that AEM has signed an agreement with their company to be their exclusive distributor for North America on their recently acquired digital audio system line of products.

“We are thrilled to have signed an agreement with Dallas Avionics to distribute our digital audio systems and switch consoles,” said AEM Director of Sales and Marketing Tony Weller. “Dallas Avionics has an experienced sales team, a large customer base and extensive history in the industry. They understand the communication needs of customers, the different types of radios and devices and fully-understand our product capabilities.”

Scott Davis is the Vice President of Sales for Dallas Avionics. “Our customers have asked us for digital audio systems. The AEM product delivers exactly the flexibility and clarity they want. We have the G13115, G13116 and G13000 audio router available now. We are thrilled to be able to add the new AEM line of products to our list of products. We have sold the AEM loudspeaker systems for years and adding this line of product just made sense for use and ultimately our customers.”
