ARGUS International Inc. Hires Mike McCready as Senior Vice President of Operations and Business Development

Greenwood Village – November 18, 2020

ARGUS International Inc., a division of SGS offering specialized aviation services and software, announced the hiring of Mike McCready as Senior Vice President of Operations and Business Development.

Mike brings 25 years of experience in aviation to his role at ARGUS. In 2019, he founded World Jet Group, a consulting firm for aviation industry executives. He served as the Vice President of Sales for the Americas at Jet Aviation based in Basel, Switzerland. Additionally, Mike spent eight years as Senior Manager of Business Development at The Boeing Company in Englewood, Colorado. Starting his career managing and building flight training schools, Mike has held senior leadership roles at Jeppesen in Englewood, Colorado.

While at Jeppesen, he created Jeppesen Operator, a software designed to bring safety and efficiency to aviation operations. By combining flight planning, scheduling, and trip planning into a single platform, Jeppesen Operator allows operators to manage their complete operation and safety management system. “I am truly looking forward to bringing the same aviation innovation to this established industry leader,” McCready says, “I am excited to become a key contributor to the growth of ARGUS.”

“Mike is known for creating a groundwork of safety and service while ensuring customer needs are fulfilled,” said Joe Moeggenberg, CEO of ARGUS International. “Using data-driven analytics to improve business efficiency while focusing on customer service is why we are very excited to welcome Mike to our team at ARGUS,” said Moeggenberg.
