DONALDSON NAMES DAN LARSEN AS GENERAL MANAGER, AEROSPACE & DEFENSE

ST. LOUIS (April 2, 2018) – Donaldson Aerospace & Defense, a division of Donaldson Company, Inc. (NYSE: DCI) today announced that Dan Larsen has been named General Manager, Aerospace & Defense.

An 18-year company veteran, Larsen is responsible for refining the global growth strategies for the Aerospace & Defense business. He began his career at Donaldson in corporate purchasing, where he held several roles over five years. He then spent seven years in OEM sales, working with global OEMs in the off-road and on-road industry in roles ranging from account manager to sales director. In 2013, Larsen moved to the engine aftermarket business, where he was responsible for global hydraulics. In 2015 he moved to China, where he was responsible for the engine business for greater China.

“Dan has played an important role in igniting growth in our core on- and off-road OEM markets,” said Tom Scalf, Senior Vice President of Engine Products. “We are pleased that Dan has accepted this new role, bringing his expertise and business acumen to this important opportunity. I am delighted to welcome him to the organization.”
